Arctic Defence Airport Chain Held Essential

Canada's national defences will require airports strung across the Arctic region every two hundred miles, according to Grant McConachie, president of Canadian Pacific Airlines, to members of the Alberta North West Chamber of Mines and Resources at the organizations annual meeting held Friday at the Macdonald hotel.

He predicted that around these airports and other landing strips in the Arctic would grow settlements, and that the freight now moving by air in Northern Canada would not be a fraction of the tonnage airlines are carrying in the next decade if nothing impedes the proper development of the north.

He added that this development depends on manpower, and a vigorous immigration program is absolutely essential to provide the manpower needed for the extraction of the vast resources of the northland.

MR. McCONACHIE predicted a network of highways tapping heavy freight from river deposits to mining centres, adding that with the waterways, highways, and airlines there would be little need for the development of rail transportation for some considerable time in far Northern Canada.

The future of air transportation in Northern Canada is as great as the future of Northern Canada itself. "With the development of the potentials of that area I can foresee numerous small towns springing up through the north west. These will be connected by a network of air services vital to the life of the communities."

HE PREDICTED that the volume of air freight will be tremendous, and will not only include goods of the type that are handled by railway express today, but will reach a long way into cargo, now moving by rail freight.

Mr. McConachie said that as a result of an inspection tour of the north, he was convinced that

49 Jews Killed In Arab Battle

JERUSALEM, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Arab sources said today that as many as 49 Jews were killed in fighting with Arabs overnight in the Judean hills between Bethlehem and Hebron.

Police, placing together water reports from the area, gave this version: Jews attacked the Arab village of Hail in the hills south-west of Bethlehem, wounding six Arabs. Returning to their base of operations, they were ambushed by Arabs and about half were wiped out.

Jewish sources said the attackers had inflicted heavy Arab casualties and "all our men returned to the base."

Hagan, Jewish militia, has made no comment since the fight began yesterday.

New Demonstrations Flare at Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17.—A jeering mob of 10,000 Chinese demonstrated for 2½ hours before the British consulate today while 300 police armed with rifles, machine guns and bayonets stood guard.

THE DEMONSTRATION was in protest against the eviction of Chinese squatters from Mowloon, the mainland settlement across a moat from the British crown colony of Hong Kong.

The crowd was composed of 5,000 Chinese, several hundred workers and other citizens. They began massing at Chiao Lung University shortly after noon and marched through Shanghai streets.

Meanwhile Hong Kong Airways cancelled all scheduled flight to and from Canton for tomorrow in order to use the planes to evacuate about 100 British women and children from that Chinese city.

There was a knock at the door. It was a neighbor who had just dropped in. The robber tied him up, too. Then a baby started crying, and the intruder freed one of the women and demanded she quiet the child.

When there was another visitor, an insurance salesman. The harassed robber trusted him up. "Then, his patience at an end, he shouted: 'The wench!' grabbed a bottle of milk and left."

THE STRIKE today appeared slightly nearer settlement following a move by the Alberta government to set up a conciliation board.

The strike was reported yesterday following union agreement with the Alberta government.

Publisher, Writer Must Face Charge

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—(CP)—Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow today dismissed a motion to quash five Alberta warrants charging Jack C. Cooke, publisher of New Liberty magazine, and Writer Harold Dingman, with conspiracy to publish a defamatory libel.

Last week at a special hearing before Mr. Justice Barlow at Osgoode Hall here, Joseph Seligwick, M.C., counsel for the two men, argued that the attorney-general for Alberta had no status in an Ontario court. Therefore, he said, the Ontario supreme court could quash the warrants.

The charges of conspiracy to publish a defamatory libel were laid as the result of an article written by Mr. Dingman, titled "Babies For Export" in the last Dec. 27 issue of New Liberty.

Would Help Canada Favors Re-Opening U.S. Cattle Market

Special to The Edmonton Bulletin

LETHBRIDGE, Jan. 17.—Although he has no reason to predict another packing-house strike this year, nothing has been done to remove the chief cause of last fall's costly month-long strike, J. Howard Kelly, secretary and solicitor of Butts & Company Ltd., said at the Western Stock Growers' convention here Friday.

MR. KELLY SAID the last strike could be attributed to the standard agreement on each province, and each house Workers' Union insists. The Canadian constitution puts authority and responsibility for labor legislation on each province, and each can handle this responsibility any way it wishes. Yet the Union insists on its relations with the Packers being exactly the same in all provinces.

Earlier R. J. Dinning, president of the Alberta Stock Growers' Association, speaking on packer and producer relationships, said the strike was "unfortunate, ill-planned and unnecessary."

He said labor is entitled to fair wages, good working conditions and the right to strike. But responsibility goes with these rights. Everybody must obey the law, "but Union and Union members as well."

Mr. Dinning stated that, without a prosperous livestock industry, the country could not survive, and without an outlet for surplus products produced with a stable and reasonable price, agriculture is a sure way to the pauper.

The livestock men of Canada, continued Mr. Dinning, "are making a monetary contribution to the country. They are the backbone of the Canadian economy and they are doing it at a heavy financial sacrifice. What is the reward? Will this fine contribution gradually be forgotten, and will the packers risk into permanent oblivion, or will a grateful government reward the livestock men?"

He said his company was in favor of re-opening the U.S. market for live Canadian cattle since anything that would help beef producers would help all of Canada.

He said the strike disproved the charge that the "big three" had a monopoly of the market. "In many ways there was more meat than before. There cannot be a monopoly when almost overnight the country could produce seven to twelve million head of cattle for slaughter in a few days."

The meeting passed a resolution calling for registration of all unions, such registration to be equivalent to incorporation, and the unions would be subject to Alberta Supreme Court jurisdiction in any other corporate body.

Fire Prevention Week is scheduled every year for the week including Oct. 9 to Oct. 15, the anniversary of the great Chicago fire of 1871.

spoke later this month, and it will carry the ball from there. Charles H. W. Bradshaw of Calgary, and George Ross of Edmonton and George Ross of Edmonton and George Ross of Edmonton.

At Friday morning's session when a post-mortem on Agriculture was held, Mr. Ross said the government position meant, "we won't have any beef industry in Canada."

"MY FATHER and I were born in Canada," said Mr. Ross, "but I feel that we should demand the same for our children. The extent of secession from the east." He operates a ranch which houses the Montana border. Applauded his statement.

E. Handle of High River said he shared Mr. Ross' sentiment but felt it would be more practical to fight the battle on the whole range, and work for the whole thing later. For instance, he said to the whole livestock industry.

"We don't have enough votes out here in the west," said Ben Plummer, president of the Alberta Stock Growers' Association. "We need more votes. We need more votes. We need more votes."

"Behind Gardiner's confidence it was easy to see the government is not serious about the livestock industry. It is badly in need of a new government. It is badly in need of a new government. It is badly in need of a new government."

"In the TINY SOUTH, they left Stockholm last July 2, they reached Belgium, 17 days later, and they were in the U.S. on July 20. On July 20 they heard from North America and, after a 38-day trip, they were in the U.S. on July 20."

Their craft was impounded and they were detained by immigration officials and refused admission to the United States because the British consul had been exceeded many times by former refugees. They were granted a six-month stay. During that period the Canadian government gave them permission to enter Canada.

Another member suggested giving the livestock industry a vote. It kept half the premium on sales in the United States. "We are right now, we should have a vote. We should have a vote. We should have a vote."

"The CROWD SURED between the consular and the Glenelg building, which was burned down by a fire. The demonstrators smeared the sides of British firms, and painted the sides of American naval vessels with, 'go home, you dirty forces.'"

Motor Transport Meet

Death compensation speed—so stated members of the Alberta Motor Transport Association as they recommended the provincial government that the speed limit of all automobiles in the province travelling on highways be limited to 50 miles per hour. This recommendation was put forth at the association's annual meeting held in the Masonic Temple.

A TABLE OF statistics put forth by the association shows that out of every 100 accidents when driving:

20 mph — 14 are fatal
30 mph — 14 are fatal
40 mph — 29 are fatal
50 mph — 4 are fatal
Over 50 mph — 9 are fatal

The meeting was attended by about 200 members. In evening about 325 trucks, their wives and friends attended a banquet and dance in the Masonic Temple.

Sharp criticism was voiced regarding the Canadian Pacific railway entering the trucking industry in competition with individual truckers.

The association also put forth a recommendation that when road construction and repair work is done by private contractors the provincial government should have mandatory rates included in all contracts.

THE GROUP ALSO pointed out that due to the higher cost of living, increase in cost of parts, gasoline and mechanical labor that rates for dump-truck hire should be increased.

Other resolutions passed were: 1. The Highway Traffic Board is instructed that when road construction and repair work is done by private contractors the provincial government should have mandatory rates included in all contracts.

2. Owing to the increasing cost of parts, gasoline and mechanical labor that rates for dump-truck hire should be increased.

3. That, during the period when road work is necessary, a full ban be placed on all heavy vehicle traffic during this period, and that the ban be maintained until the road is completed.

4. That the provincial government be instructed to consider the purchase of regulating the price of gasoline to the consumer on a similar basis to the controls presently being exercised by the Coal and Petroleum Board of British Columbia.

5. That sufficient equipment be purchased by the provincial government to enable them to give practical driving tests to all applicants for the license for the license year 1948-49.

6. That the province of Alberta place five motorcycle patrolmen on the main highways of the province for the purpose of checking speeds and general driving conditions of motorcycles.

Further, that these patrols operate at least part of the time during the night.

7. That the provincial government be instructed to consider the purchase of regulating the price of gasoline to the consumer on a similar basis to the controls presently being exercised by the Coal and Petroleum Board of British Columbia.

Over 50 mph — 9 are fatal

The meeting was attended by about 200 members. In evening about 325 trucks, their wives and friends attended a banquet and dance in the Masonic Temple.

Sharp criticism was voiced regarding the Canadian Pacific railway entering the trucking industry in competition with individual truckers.

The association also put forth a recommendation that when road construction and repair work is done by private contractors the provincial government should have mandatory rates included in all contracts.

THE GROUP ALSO pointed out that due to the higher cost of living, increase in cost of parts, gasoline and mechanical labor that rates for dump-truck hire should be increased.

Other resolutions passed were: 1. The Highway Traffic Board is instructed that when road construction and repair work is done by private contractors the provincial government should have mandatory rates included in all contracts.

2. Owing to the increasing cost of parts, gasoline and mechanical labor that rates for dump-truck hire should be increased.

3. That, during the period when road work is necessary, a full ban be placed on all heavy vehicle traffic during this period, and that the ban be maintained until the road is completed.

4. That the provincial government be instructed to consider the purchase of regulating the price of gasoline to the consumer on a similar basis to the controls presently being exercised by the Coal and Petroleum Board of British Columbia.

5. That sufficient equipment be purchased by the provincial government to enable them to give practical driving tests to all applicants for the license for the license year 1948-49.

6. That the province of Alberta place five motorcycle patrolmen on the main highways of the province for the purpose of checking speeds and general driving conditions of motorcycles.

Further, that these patrols operate at least part of the time during the night.

7. That the provincial government be instructed to consider the purchase of regulating the price of gasoline to the consumer on a similar basis to the controls presently being exercised by the Coal and Petroleum Board of British Columbia.

Cold Waves Don't Originate Here

Western Prairies No "Icebox"; Officials Defend Our Weather

By AL VICKERY
Western Canadians rose up in defence of winter weather on the prairies today, maintaining that cold spells aren't anything to get excited about if one wears the proper clothing and insisting that the climate out this way has the advantage of being healthy.

ACTUALLY, as is known by any true Western Canadian from the age of three up, the cold waves that move across the prairies and into the United States and Eastern Canada usually originate in the far north around the Mackenzie Valley region. Since that district is about 1,000 miles north of Edmonton, it's hardly fair to blame all the cold on the prairies.

Tourist travel officials in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta at the time of the defence of the west on the weather question following a report from Detroit which indicated that some Americans regard the prairie region as an "ice box."

R. E. Grouse, director of travel and publicity for the Manitoba government, said inquiries from the United States had been heavier for the coming year "if anything" than last year. He said more and more Americans had queried about living conditions and about attending the Northern Manitoba Travel Festival at the Fair.

Mayor Garnet Coulter of Winnipeg also was quick to come to the defence of his city and the province.

"I'VE BEEN in the northern States and I'll take our climate anytime," said the mayor. "National health statistics show that this particular region is healthier than any other part of the Dominion."

An official of the Saskatchewan tourist bureau in Regina had this to say on behalf of prairie weather: "You can see more snow-covered and nylon-stocked gals in Regina in the middle of winter than you can in Detroit."

Then there was this from Dan O'Brien, director of Alberta's Travel Bureau:

"Owing to excellent weather people are more inclined to travel."

UFA-AFU Merger Certainty

Joint Body Unlikely

Set Up Immediately

By Lorne Bruce
Alberta's two farmer organizations appeared today to have finally reached a stage where prospects for amalgamation are bright, but it is unlikely the proposed joint body will be established within a year.

AFTER NEARLY seven years of negotiations, the way was cleared for definite steps when the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta approved a resolution recommending amalgamation with the Alberta Farmers' Union.

A major step toward making the way for the merger was taken when the UFA decided to make an open house of its headquarters, a move demanded by the militant and aggressive Alberta Farmers' Union.

The UFA, which staged the month-long delivery strike in the fall of 1946, was a far cry from the farm produce war that a piece of its members on whether they should merge or not. If 60 per cent favor the move, then the two bodies will set up committee to draft plans for a joint convention.

But a merger of the two bodies will not be accomplished for a year at least. Amalgamation has been advocated as a means of having one body speak for all the province's farmers and thus obtaining greater results. With only one body, the farmers who favor a national union of "farmers" would move more with confidence into the international field.

AFU MEMBERS, energetic proponents of the national union idea, believe such a union could be affiliated with the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and would not conflict with UFA members who wish to retain their affiliation with the CFA and the Alberta Federation of Agriculture.

The AFU already is a member, with the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan branch, on an interprovincial committee campaigning for a national union and any amalgamation is likely to further rather than retard such plans.

When the UFA is completely divorced from its co-operative, there

Alleged Confession To Be Investigated

A 28-year-old Edmonton murder will be investigated shortly when Detective William McDonald, recently retired, makes a trip to Walla Walla, the Washington state penitentiary, to interrogate William A. Bowles who last August was reported to have confessed to the murder of a city policeman, Constable William Nixon.

AFTER CONSIDERABLE correspondence between the attorney general's department here and the Washington state penitentiary, it was decided by H. J. Wilson, deputy attorney general, that the confession should be investigated. Although Bowles' story does not altogether jibe with particulars here the attorney general's department stated that they believe it in the public interest that the case be investigated.

Detective McDonald retired from the city police force at the end of 1947 but due to the fact that he was one of the original investigators of the case in 1919 it was deemed advisable by both Chief Constable H. J. Wilson and government officials that he should carry out the interview with Bowles. Detective McDonald will leave for Walla Walla this week.

BOWLES, a FORMER Edmonton man, is at present serving 15 years in the Washington state penitentiary for the murder of a policeman here but received a stay of proceedings on the charge when not sufficient evidence could be brought forth to prove his guilt.

Larsen did, however, receive life sentence on other charges at the time. Recently it was learned that Larsen was in the state of prison on a ticket of leave.

Bowles' murder was reported by the company of Larsen on the night of Aug. 30, 1919 and after burglarizing a store Bowles is alleged to have confessed that he killed Nixon.

It is police knowledge here that on that night Constable Nixon was on duty at the police station and 104 avenue when he noticed a movement in a doorway. He went to investigate and was shot.

TODAY'S MESSAGE
The Lord's Prayer
Of all prayers, the greatest is the Lord's Prayer, taught to the Apostles by Christ Himself. It is the greatest not only because of its Divine authority, but because of its incomparable expression of man's relation to God.
Every phrase is perfect in its beauty and truth. The prayer begins with a solemn bowing of the heart before the majesty and limitless power of God. With the salutation, "Our Father which art in heaven," the Christian acknowledges not only the greatness of God's love, but his own utter dependence upon that love.
The suppliant soul proceeds to pray that the name of God may be revered everywhere in the world, and that His creature may one day be blessed by union with their Maker in His unseen, everlasting world.
Mindful that eternal happiness can never be won without effort on his part, the Christian accepts God's will as the supreme form of all conduct and aspiration. "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." He raises his petition that God may continue to supply his needs, spiritual and physical.
Continuing, the Christian asks God to forgive him his sins, bearing in mind that, since all men are equally the children of God, he must himself imitate the Divine mercy by showing love even toward his most determined enemies.
Finally, the Christian acknowledges that without God he is nothing. Humbly he asks for strength against temptation and for protection and courage in times of danger. Thus, in the space of twenty seconds, the Christian lifts his mind in grateful adoration and tribute to his Creator. He opens to himself the very heart of God by using the language and words of the Lord's own choosing.

COME TO CHURCH THIS SUNDAY
Christian Science
"Life" will be the theme expounded in the lesson course in Christian Science churches on Sunday. The sermon is composed of selections such as these: "I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have not before you life and death, blessing and cursing; therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live." (Deuteronomy 30:19)
"Be ye separate from the belief and dream of material living, in the life of love, revealing spiritual understanding and the connection by the love of man's dominion over the man's heart." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 141.)

TRUE FRIENDS

ONE morning the Cook went out back of the Teenie Weenie kitchen to get an armful of stove wood. He had just picked up a stick when a chickadee settled on the kitchen roof and reported that the Rhyming Rabbit was fast in a trap.

"I saw two boys near there yesterday with a trap and they must have set it in front of the rabbit's hole," the bird said.

"Thanks," the Cook said. "I'll tell the General about it."

He immediately reported to the General. Several of the little men hurriedly put on their warm clothes, for it was cold outside, and set off for the Rhyming Rabbit's hole. There they found their friend held fast in a steel trap by a front foot. The Teenie Weenies could see that the rabbit was in great pain, but he did not complain.

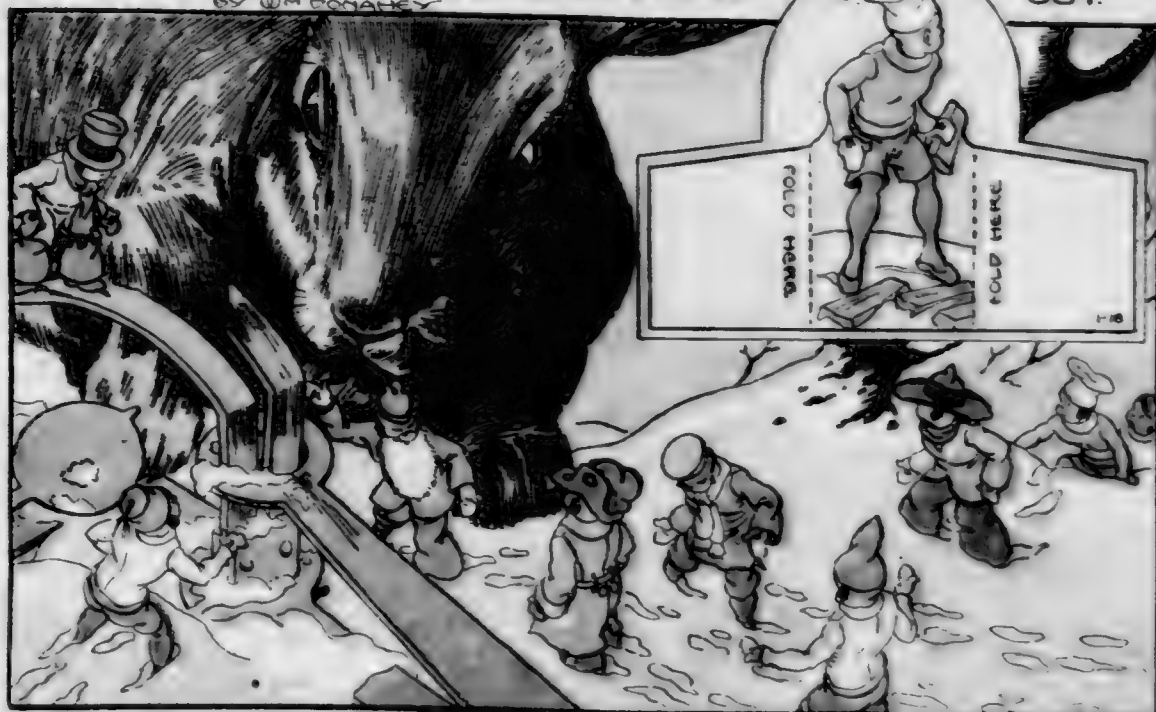

"It's going to be a job to get his foot free," the Turk said as he examined the trap. "We may be able to cut it with a hacksaw."

"You'll never cut through this trap with a saw," said the Old Soldier with a wooden leg. "We probably can open it with a Teenie Weenie jack by compressing it until it is opened enough for its foot out."

Some of the little men were sent off to get the necessary tools from the Teenie Weenie workshop. "Bring along an ax and some pieces of hard wood wedges, too," the Old Soldier called after them. The Doctor climbed up onto the trap and examined the rabbit's foot. He found that no bones were broken but he could see that the rabbit was suffering.

ing. Presently the men returned with the jack and tools and they set to work jacking down the jaws of the trap. Little by little the big jaws were forced open, and as they opened the men put in wedges so the jaws would not snap back in case the jack slipped. Finally, the rabbit was able to pull his foot out of the trap. He nodded his head in thanks and nobbled down into his hole without a word. He was in too much pain to rhyme and the Rhyming Rabbit talks only in rhyme. The little men gathered up their

They ate a 'ate but hearty breakfast of creamed crawfish on toast and hot cornbread with raisin sauce.

When the boys who had set the trap came along they saw many tracks about their empty trap, but they thought they were merely mouse tracks. Had they studied those tracks they would have seen that they were Teenie Weenie footprints, and they would have had a clue to the solution of the mystery of how a rabbit escaped from their trap.
